NOTICE: Warning Concerning Copyright Restrictions

The copyright law of the United States (Title 17 United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted materials. The doctrine of “fair use” allows libraries and archives to furnish a photocopy or reproduction for purposes such as criticism, comment, news reporting, teaching (including multiple copies for classroom use), scholarship, or research, which is not an infringement of copyright. If a patron makes a request for, or later uses, a photocopy or reproduction for purposes in excess of “fair use,” that patron may be liable for copyright infringement. This institution reserves the right to refuse to accept a copying order if, in its judgement, fulfillment of the order would involve violation of copyright law.
